

advertisement | your ad here

home of the

Home Delivery | Subscriber Services

FIND THE A's ON Comcast SPORTSNET CALIFORNIA channel listings and more >

Home Delivery | Subscriber Services

SEARCH

SFGate

Web Search by YAHOO!

Advanced Search

Sign In | Register

Movies Music & Nightlife Performance Art Events Books TV & Radio Horoscope Comics Things To Do

Review: 'Debate Team' a feast of ruthlessness

advertisement | your ad here

David Wiegand, Chronicle Staff Writer

Saturday, July 18, 2009

PRINT E-MAIL SHARE COMMENTS \(1\)

FONT | SIZE: - +

Debate Team: Edited and directed by B. Douglas Robbins, produced by Robbins and Joseph W. Walling. 5:30 p.m. Sunday, KQED.

IMAGES

Green Lamp Pictures

View Larger Image

Back in high school, debate teams may have ranked just above audiovisual clubs in the social pecking order, but Bay Area filmmaker B. Douglas Robbins takes us inside the kill-or-be-killed world of obsessive arguers at a college level to suggest that these nerdy young men and women will either take over the world some day, or represent it in court.

"Debate Team," a Truly CA documentary airing Sunday on KQED, focuses on the 2005 national debate tournament in which the UC Berkeley team of Stacey Nathan and Craig Wickersham came from behind to beat Dartmouth in the finals at UC San Francisco.

That's no mean feat, considering that some 180 teams were competing, but the film is much more than a "Bad News Bears" of the debate world: It's an often compelling, and even scary, look at people who spend hours and hours without sleep or showers, researching topics and amassing files of data which are culled down to debate length through a process called "cutting cards."

If you think a debate is a staid, gentlemanly (or gentlewomanly) event where each side quietly offers either an affirmative or contrary argument, Robbins and his subjects are here to show you otherwise. The goal of presenting a good debate is to pack as many arguments into a six-minute period as possible, to give your opponents so much to chew on that they choke. To do that, debaters stand in over-lit meeting rooms and rattle off their positions like tobacco auctioneers, gasping every few hundred words for breath. "Sometimes you just have to deal with drool and spit," one debater offers.

And sometimes, you have to deal with a degree of depression and personality disorder - one debater insists unconvincingly that the practice is not nihilistic. "You never hear the possibility of human extinction discussed so much as in debates," another debater concedes. Topics usually range from world political crises, to global warming, to the depletion of fossil fuels.

While it's fascinating hearing today's herd of debaters, we also get incredible and rather sad insight from Michael Miller, one of the most victorious debaters ever, who racked up win after win after win, only to see it all end when he lost the nationals in 1969. He had no plan for his life after that tournament and 40 years later, he's still wounded by the loss.

MOST COMMENTED MOST READ MOST E-MAILED

- Coalition of LGBT groups: Next year too soon for gay marriage vote in CA
- BART's largest union rejects contract proposal
- Unemployment rate remains at 11.6 percent for June
- Slain Oakland suspect had dropped gun
- A better plan needed for 4-year-old panhandler
- In Central Valley town, racist e-mailing is just 'poking fun'
- Cain to go Sunday

Top Autos

From Ellis Brooks Auto Center

DODGE
2005 Neon
$6,995

FORD
2003 Explorer Sport
$7,995

CHEVROLET
2008 Tahoe Hybrid
$37,988

GMC
2008 Canyon
$14,995

JEEP
2008 Patriot
$13,995

LINCOLN
2004 Town Car
$13,995

CHEVROLET
2006 Silverado 1500
$13,995

CHEVROLET
2007 HHR
$13,888

VOLKSWAGEN
2002 Cabrio
$8,995

Debaters are ruthless strategists, who must be willing to "kill the puppy," in debate parlance - to unnerve their opponents at every opportunity. They have to think on their feet and be prepared for anything from the other side.

"Debate is primarily about psychology," offers a seasoned debate coach, but the fascinating aspect of Robbins' film is what we learn about the psychology of the debaters themselves. One kid tells us he tried and failed at every sport imaginable in high school, only to find his niche in debating. One of the most intriguing characters is Aaron Hardy, a debater from Michigan State University who was formerly known as Mountain Man because of his beard, long hair and aversion to soap and water. Listening to him talk, you almost think he'd literally kill a puppy to win. And when his side loses, the intensity of his unspoken rage is downright frightening.

Robbins has done a terrific job detailing a world that seems almost entirely disconnected from the rest of us. The editing of the film makes it a bit challenging here and there as Robbins skips back and forth from the 2005 finals in San Francisco, to earlier tournaments. You may have some difficulty remembering who's who at various points, as well, because the fast-talking heads aren't always identified. Given how many of them we hear from, it probably would be helpful to ID them more frequently.

That said, "Debate Team" is a surprisingly comprehensive look into a world where winning is really the only thing, for better or worse.

Want to make something of it?

E-mail David Wiegand at dwiegand@sfnchronicle.com.

This article appeared on page E - 1 of the San Francisco Chronicle

See more from this dealer

Ellis Brooks
Auto Center

About Top Autos
View All Top Autos

REAL ESTATE

HGTV Dream Home in Sonoma sold back to designer

Folks who drooled over HGTV's 2009 "Dream Home" can have a shot at owning it, assuming they have enough dough.

Commercial real estate lending picks up
Sears Tower renamed Willis Tower
Search for open homes

Search Real Estate >

CARS

This truck needs to be grounded

Dear Tom and Ray: I have a 1991 Ford F-150. You could use up this entire section of the newspaper on this truck. But perhaps you can...

Search for a new or used truck
Mercedes-Benz expands 2009 CLK lineup
Fall most deadly driving, winter safest

Search Cars >

JOB5

White firefighter's frustrations are undercurrent

He spoke, this 35-year-old firefighter, to frustrations that still

PRINT E-MAIL SHARE

(1) View Comments »

Share your thoughts on this story.

Add Your Comment

You must be signed in to add a comment. Sign In | Register

Empty comment box

Submit

Most Recommended Comments

urmelausdemeis 7/18/2009 2:47:06 PM

That said, "Debate Team" is a surprisingly comprehensive look into a world where winning is really the only thing, for better or worse.

....

So why are we surprised when we see all the ruthless, inconsiderate, self-centered egomaniacs impacting everyone else's life. Winning is everything, community is nothing. Be that City Hall, the spectacle of a mayor, the Supervisors zoo or everyday life where people argue over parking spots, cheat, steal and lie to, well, win. At least win in their own perspective.

The fact that the community loses (please go ahead and call me a socialist, communist, liberal idiot, whatever you feel like) plays no role whatsoever. I want to win, I want to quickly make the left turn even though it is not my turn yet, and even though I might kill someone. Bad luck for them, good for me because, guess what, I won.

My stomach just won over the content therein after reading the article....

Recommend: (4) (2) [Report Abuse]

View Comments (1)

Panhandler, 4, taken from mom

Moon landing events blast off

Lower Haight vs. Upper Haight

Wiernmobile crashes into home

Tour of Bay Area's 'median' homes

Ads by Yahoo!

Prepare to Debate

Whitman National Debate Institute: Policy and LD Debate Camp with one-on-one instruction, practice debates, and tons of evidence. (www.whitman.edu)

Gifts Baskets By Design

Read reviews for this Gift Shop & find local Shopping Information. (Eastbay.Citysearch.com)

CDE Debate and Extemporeous

Summer camps, books and videos on debate - team, cross-exam and extemporaneous. Lincoln-Douglas debate, Turner debate book, internet research, teacher's guides, blocks and affirmative cases. (cdedebate.com)

Subscribe to The Chronicle

Home News Sports Business Entertainment Food Living Travel Columns Classifieds Jobs Real Estate Cars Site Index [return to top]

Advertising Services: Place a Classified Advertise in Print Advertise Online Public Notices

Reader Services: Home Delivery Subscribers E-Edition Mobile RSS Feeds Newsletters Feedback Buy Photos FAQ Corrections Get Us

Company Info: Contact Us Hearst Corp. Privacy Policy Terms and Conditions Work for Us Chronicle in Education Events & Promotions Submissions

© 2009 Hearst Communications Inc.

HEARST newspapers ripped in an undercurrent across...

Committee agrees to longer COBRA benefits
French workers threaten to blow up factory
Be your own boss

Search Jobs »

ADVERTISERS

Hawaii $405+ 3 Nights with Air - Pleasant Holidays

Equifax can help you monitor your credit score